

ABSTRACT

A method for preventing loss of drilling fluid into fractures in the rock formation being drilled includes using coconut coir as a lost circulation material. Additionally, an effective mixture for reducing drilling fluid loss includes drilling fluid and coconut coir. Other lost circulation materials can also be added.